

News Flash Question!
 What is a bit north of the East Quad? A tad norther of the West Quad? What is situated in a southerly direction from Lovely Lake Fred but Northerly from Stockton's sanctum of learning?

Before we spill the beans, please announce:

The Really, Really Big Lit/Lang Holiday Workshop Bash

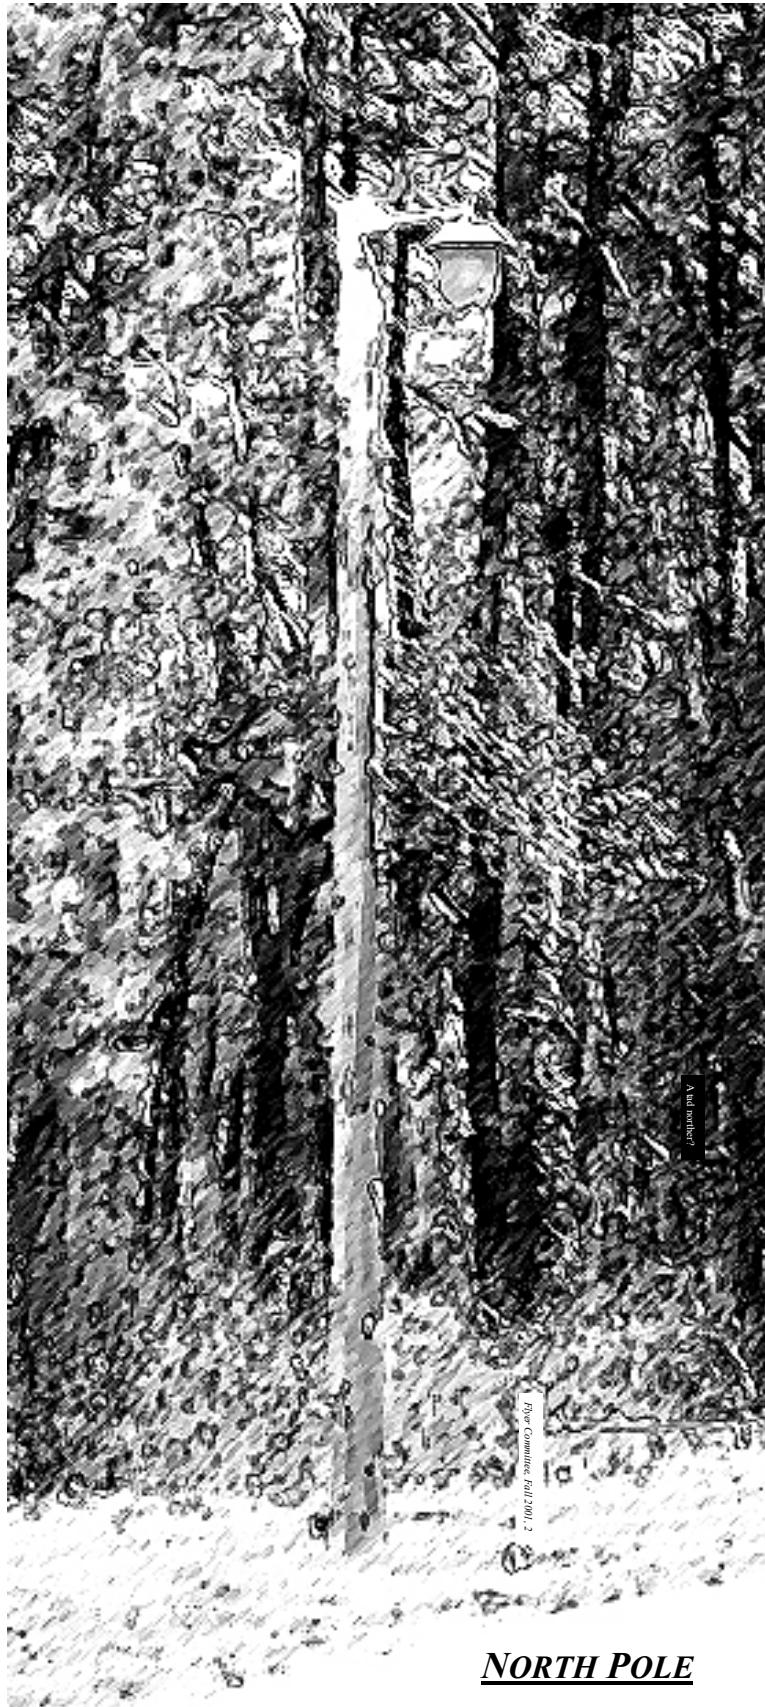

Friday, Dec. 7,
 4:30-6:00,
 In G-208

News Flash Extra!
 To the left is Little Red, good friend and near companion to The NPTRSCNJ.

What you ask is the NPTRSCNJ? Please see below.

Answer to the News Flash Question! The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey's very own . . .

Finally precise directions to The North Pole of The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey (NPTRSCNJ). Walk to the flyway bridge of the East Quad. Climb to the second story bridge and enjoy the view of said Quad (ah, the serenity!), then turn about and look toward beautiful Lake Fred. It's there through the leafless branches. See also the service road below. Walk down the stairway and onto said road. Watch for service vehicles. Stride toward Stockton's Big Blue library addition. Just before you get there see Little RED, close companion to The Pole. Look a few yards away; there it is: The NPTRSCNJ. Don't be afraid, touch it if you like. It is part of Stockton's Heritage.

NORTH POLE